

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

Is 'Most Here. If still in Doubt Where to Go Consult
OUR Summer Resorts.

LAST EDITION.

APPO SAYS HE'S HOUNDED.

Declares the Police Mean to Drive Him from the City or to Jail.

IS A PLOT ALL ARRANGED?

Alleged Trap by Which He Is to Be Arrested for Picking a Pocket.

SUPT. BYRNES IS WORRIED.

Preparing Charges Against Accused Policemen Is a Gigantic Task.

OVER TWO BILLIONS.

Assessed Valuation of This City's Property Holders.

Prospects that the Tax Rate Will Be Reduced.

Crocker, Grant and Other Tammany Men Are Exempted.

SENATE REPEAL NOW.

Senate Votes to Have It Go Into Effect at Once.

Hill's Motion Carried by a Vote of 35 to 32.

Resolution to Investigate the Pullman Strike Introduced.

FRESH MEAT FAMINE.

That's What the Pullman Car Strike Means for New York.

No Perishable Freight Received by the Western Railroads.

And Local Marketmen Are Already Putting Up Prices.

A POOR SHOW FOR THE FOURTH.

Uncle Sam.—I Don't Like It, but I S'pose It's the Best I Can Get.

LAST EDITION.

STRIKE TAKEN TO COURT.

Government Attorneys Consult with United States Judges in Chicago.

ARMS GIVEN TO DEPUTIES.

Strikers Prove Too Much for the Forces of the Marshal.

WABASH NOT YET TIED UP

Troops Ordered to Disperse a Mob at a Springfield Depot.

The protection offered to witnesses by the Lexow Committee, while no doubt a wholesome restraint upon any open efforts at intimidation by the police, has not been an absolute shield from molestation in the case of at least one of those who went before the investigators as an acknowledged former criminal.

According to the story told by George Appo, whose testimony regarding the green-rocks business created a sensation at the session of the Lexow Committee on June 14, the intimidation to which he is now being subjected is entirely in line with those practices which made it possible for police extortion as immunity from retribution to become a lucrative source of income.

The system, according to him, is as follows: Whether now engaged in a nefarious calling or not, should the crook become obnoxious to the police, he is compelled to quit the city or go to State prison.

Of course, it is possible that the offender may not want to quit the city nor yet to abide behind bars, but usually it is of little use. A job is put up and the criminal is found with the booty of a theft in his possession or in some such predicament, which means a sure conviction.

This neat little trick, says Appo, is the means by which the police intend to send him from the city, and at the same time remove from the path of Green-Goods King McNally and "Big Patsey" Hadlock a man whom both have reason to wish elsewhere.

He has been told that a Central Office detective boldly announced that at the first opportunity which offered he would be made the centre of a crowd upon some thoroughfare in which a man was to lose a watch. An outcry was to be made and the stolen "waper" was to be found in Appo's pocket.

Owing to Appo's reputation as a pick-pocket and the incontrovertible presence of "green" watch in his pocket, there would be little use for a defense and a point would be scored by both the green goods people and the police. This "plant," Appo says, has been worked before to get rid of obnoxious people. The loser of the watch is, of course, a part of the trick.

That some such plan as this described under way Appo firmly believes, and color is lent to it by the fact that he has been shadowed ever since his appearance on the witness stand.

Upon several occasions he has been accosted by men who have tried to draw him into conversation, but his native shrewdness has been sufficient to detect their intentions.

This story was told by Appo to an "Evening World" reporter this morning; and he said he had been followed about immediately after his appearance before the Committee. He said he was suddenly interested in me. People whom I never saw before would approach me and ask me how I was getting on, and then hang about so that could hardly shake them.

"On Saturday I was standing at Eighth street and Sixth avenue when a tall, dark man dressed in a blue suit, with brown shoes, came and said 'Hello.' I told him he had made a mistake, but he said that he recognized me from my picture in the papers.

"Then he wanted me to drink, which I refused to do, and he followed me to the corner of Fourth street. Here I boarded a car and evaded him.

"The following morning while coming to the restaurant at Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue, I was approached by a man wearing a black coat, white waistcoat and fashionable trousers. He exclaimed: 'Way, George, how are you?' How are you getting on?' I told him that I had never seen him before, and that I didn't know a car.

"Continuing, Appo told how he had been told to purchase goods at a Chinese establishment at Boylston and Fall street, where he had traded for four years. The proprietor absolutely refused to sell him anything, as did all other Chinese merchants in the quarter. They tacitly admitted that the police had placed a ban upon Appo in the district. In fact, one of them is said to have informed Appo that the ward man of the Elizabeth street station had threatened to 'crush' him.

(Continued on Third Page.)

The Board of Aldermen put in special sessions today to receive from the Tax Commissioners the tax books for 1894, showing the amount of assessments in personal and real estate.

There is an increase of $69,813,508 in real estate values and a decrease of $230,944 in the valuation of personal property, said to be due to the recent hard times. The total assessed valuation in 1893 was $1,253,813,529. This year the two-billion-mark was reached, the exact figures being $2,003,322,037.

The increase in real estate valuation, considering the depreciation of property during the business depression, is abnormal, and there will consequently be no necessity, as at first thought, for increasing the tax rate, which is now 1.30 on $100. If anything, it will be lower.

A semi-official statement is to the effect that the rate may be lowered to 1.25 or 1.20.

The reduction will depend on the amount for deficiencies to be added by the Aldermen to the budget. The budget for 1894 is $35,881,257. An amount, usually $500,000, is added, owing to the difficulty of collecting some of the taxes. Three per cent. of the budget can be added, and $500,000 or $600,000 may be.

The relative valuations of property in 1893 and 1894 is shown by the following table:

| Wards | Assessed valuation 1894 | Increases |
|----------------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------|
| First | $28,271,153 | $2,486,209 |
| Second | 29,270,323 | 1,124,253 |
| Third | 45,649,109 | 4,549,109 |
| Fourth | 18,902,219 | 518,810 |
| Fifth | 30,985,321 | 760,600 |
| Sixth | 27,371,709 | 184,920 |
| Seventh | 23,644,359 | 54,929 |
| Eighth | 22,504,029 | 282,769 |
| Ninth | 22,900,719 | 252,769 |
| Tenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Eleventh | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twelfth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Thirteenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Fourteenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Fifteenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Sixteenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Seventeenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Eighteenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Nineteenth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twentieth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-first | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-second | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-third | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-fourth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-fifth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-sixth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-seventh | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-eighth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Twenty-ninth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Thirtieth | 22,504,029 | 252,769 |
| Total real estate | $1,253,813,529 | $69,813,508 |
| Personal | 230,944 | -$230,944 |
| Resident | 1,253,813,529 | $69,813,508 |
| Non-resident | 230,944 | -$230,944 |
| Shareholders of banks | 230,944 | -$230,944 |
| Total personal estate | $230,944 | -$230,944 |
| Total real and personal for 1894 | $1,484,757,473 | $1,484,757,473 |

The only item of decrease in the whole list is in assessments on personal estate.

The Assessors either overlooked a number of prominent Tammany officials or for granted their statements that they held their jobs by the grace of the Mayor. It is known to have no tax, although he is known to have his own horses and carriage, which are assessable under the law, is Ex-Boss Richard Crocker.

Others whose names do not appear on the list of taxpayers or personal property are Mayor Gilroy, ex-Mayor Grant and Edson and John D. Crimmins. Gould, former Mayor, is assessed at $100,000; ex-Mayor Grant at $100,000; Mayor Hewitt at $50,000.

The last-named two are assessed Anti-Tammany men, and did not escape the agents of the Tammany Tax Department.

The personal estate of the late Jay Gould is assessed for $100,000, the personal estate of William Astor at $50,000, and that of J. P. Vanderbilt at $50,000.

Other personal assessments are: John Rockefeller, $50,000; William Rockefeller, $50,000; F. W. and George W. Vanderbilt, $50,000 each; W. K. and Cornelius Vanderbilt, $50,000 each; John Jacob Astor, $100,000; W. W. Astor, $50,000; Edwin, William and Horatio Gould, $100,000 each; George J. Gould, $50,000.

MANY LIVES REPORTED LOST.

Passenger Train Wrecked Near Cripple Creek, Col.

(By Associated Press.)

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., July 2.—A passenger train on the Florence and Cripple Creek Railroad, bound south, left the track a short distance from here.

It is reported that many lives were lost.

CRITICISES THE GOULDS.

Thinks They Are Not Anxious to Race on the Clyde.

(By Associated Press.)

GLASGOW, July 2.—The Glasgow Herald to-day complains that the owners of Vigilant, Messrs. George J. Gould and Horatio Gould, do not appear to be so anxious as supposed to race on the Clyde.

According to The Herald the Messrs. Gould dislike the course.

Keep Cool with These Fans.

A. A. Vantine & Co., the importers of Japanese and Chinese goods, of 877 Broadway, have printed an unusually large quantity of fans this year for distribution. During this kind of weather the fans become particularly useful.

Weather Forecast.

The weather forecast for the thirty-six hours ending 8 P. M. to-morrow is as follows: Fair, except possibly thunder showers this evening; favorable; fair; southerly winds. Conditions favorable for fair weather on July 4.

Prostrated by the Heat.

John Folk, a letter-carrier, twenty-nine years old, of 1182 Broadway, Brooklyn, was overcome by heat while mopping white deliverting letters on Broadway, near Covert street, and taken home in an ambulance.

Mr. Justice Granted a Divorce.

Justice O'Brien, of the Supreme Court, has given Josephine Josser an absolute divorce from Paul Josser, an art decorator at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue, where his wife conducted a corset business. Marie E. Pils was named as co-respondent.

You read "The Evening World?"

You read "The Sunday World?"

THE VENETIA ASHORE.

Struck on Stromboli Island, Scotland—Due Here July 12.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 2.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Venetia, Capt. Von Bussewitz, which sailed from Christiansand June 30 for New York, is ashore at Stromboli island, off the northern coast of Scotland.

She is not leaking and is likely to float at the next high tide.

At the office of the Hamburg-American Packet Company in this city, this morning, it was stated that a message similar to the above had been received through the Maritime Exchange. No particulars of the accident had been received, and for that reason the officials here believed it did not amount to much.

The Venetia, which is a vessel of 2,874 tons, was built at Hamburg in 1891. It is 225 feet long, 32 feet beam and 26 feet deep.

Mr. Justice Granted a Divorce.

Justice O'Brien, of the Supreme Court, has given Josephine Josser an absolute divorce from Paul Josser, an art decorator at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue, where his wife conducted a corset business. Marie E. Pils was named as co-respondent.

You read "The Evening World?"

You read "The Sunday World?"

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT.

Forecaster Dunn Promises More Warm Weather.

He Will Try to Coax Up a Thunder-Storm for This Evening.

Humidity and Old Sol Combine to Distress New Yorkers.

Hourly Heat Record.

| Hour | Degrees | Hour | Degrees |
|---------|---------|----------|---------|
| 7 A. M. | 72 | 10 A. M. | 84 |
| 8 A. M. | 74 | 11 A. M. | 86 |
| 9 A. M. | 76 | 12 Noon | 87 |

The hottest previous July 2 in New York was in 1872 and 1878, when it was 94 at 2 o'clock A. M.

A few minutes before 10 o'clock this morning Mr. E. B. Dunn, he of many titles, who is paid by the Government to supply New York with weather, entered his office. About a dozen reporters were waiting for him.

After removing his coat and hat, Mr. Dunn bade his visitors a cheery "good morning," and began to study some mysterious-looking figures on his desk. Nobody said a word.

Finally he looked up, and in his most dignified manner said, "Gentlemen, it is warm."

There was not a man who disputed him, and he continued:

"We shall have a warm Fourth of July."

There was another silence, and Mr. Dunn, seeing that there was no chance for an argument, continued:

"At 8 o'clock this morning Albany was the hottest place in the United States. In Boston it was 80, and at Montreal the same."

"It is not everywhere east of the Mississippi River," the Northwest it is somewhat cooler."

"There were heavy showers last night along the Southern Atlantic coast and in certain parts of North Carolina the rainfall was 4.9, which is remarkable."

Still nobody said a word, and Mr. Dunn continued:

"Our old friend Humidity, is still with us. At 8 o'clock this morning it was 86 per cent. and by 10 o'clock 90."

"There may be thunder showers this evening, but to-morrow will be a warm day. Gentlemen, good morning," concluded Mr. Dunn, and he reported back to the mysterious figures to see if there was any chance to add a degree or two to the heat.

When the last reporter was just disappearing from the door, Mr. Dunn called out: "I don't know whether the woman's suffrage question has any effect on the heat, but it is getting hotter there every minute."

THE HOT WAVE ABROAD.

Severely Felt in England, France, Italy and Elsewhere.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 2.—The hot wave continues here and on the Continent. Over 80 degrees of heat were recorded in England and 85 degrees in Dublin yesterday.

PARIS, July 2.—The thermometer in different parts of France to-day have recorded from 77 to 86 degrees of heat.

ROME, July 2.—The hot wave is severely felt here, the mercury recording from 84 to 86 degrees of heat to-day.

DE VOE CHALLENGES DUNN.

Invites Him to a Public Discussion Concerning Weather Laws.

Prof. A. J. De Voe, of Hackensack, N. J., who claims to be a greater weather forecaster than Mr. Dunn, called at "The Evening World" office this morning and said he hated to do so, but felt compelled to "call Mr. Dunn down" for some remarks which the latter has been reported in the newspapers as having made about the professor and his weather predictions.

"I see that Dunn says I had better take a tumble and quit making weather forecasts," said Mr. De Voe.

ROBBED BY A SERVANT

Bold Theft at Cherry Hill While the Family Were Out Driving.

$2,500 Worth of Diamonds and Railroad Bonds Stolen.

(Special to The Evening World.)

CHERRY HILL, N. J., July 2.—One of the boldest daylight robberies that ever occurred in Bergen County took place here this morning in the house of Frank R. Chinnock, an electrical contractor for Thomas A. Edison, of Newark.

Mr. Chinnock lives in a pretty cottage near the Cherry Hill station on the New Jersey and New York Railroad. About one week ago, Mr. Chinnock went to an intelligence office in New York to hire a female servant, and picked out a fair-looking woman about thirty years old.

Mr. Chinnock advised the girl to present a number of references to different places where she had worked.

Mr. and Mrs. Chinnock put so much confidence in her that they took their baby and went out for a drive on Sunday afternoon to Fort Lee and left the girl in charge of the house. When they came back at 8 o'clock the girl told Mr. Chinnock she had been robbed of $2,500 worth of diamonds and railroad bonds.

Mr. Chinnock in the morning after her trunk, and said she wanted to go on the early train, so she could get back early.

Mr. Chinnock advised the girl to wait until the 12 o'clock train this noon.

After breakfast this morning the girl did not come in to "hear away" the dishes, and Mrs. Chinnock went to the kitchen to look for her, but she was not to be found in the house.

It occurred to Mrs. Chinnock that she had not been able to find the key to her bureau drawers upstairs on Saturday and Sunday.

She rushed upstairs to make a search and found the key in a box of diamonds, a watch, a ring, a brooch, and a number of railroad bonds to the Watertown Railroad, belonging to Mr. Chinnock.

Mrs. Chinnock hastened to the railroad depot and inquired of Station Agent Cleveland if he had seen anything of the missing servant girl, and was told he had not.

Mr. Chinnock telegraphed a description of the girl to the agent at Riverdale, the next station above Cherry Hill, which is about two miles away, and was told she had taken the down train from there, due at Cherry Hill at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Chinnock took the train at Cherry Hill and found the girl on board. She got off the train at Central avenue, Hackensack, where Mr. Chinnock accused her of the theft and searched her, and found the stolen jewelry on her person, with the exception of two of the bonds, numbered 2 and 3.

Mr. Chinnock led the girl to the County Jail at Hackensack, where a charge was made against her and she was locked up.

It is thought she had an accomplice in New York, as she mailed a letter on Saturday.

DONNELLY'S PERIL.

Lawyer Stein Wrested Away a Pistol Pressed to His Abdomen.

Says It Was Held by One of the McArdis or Freedman.

Declares, Too, that Donnelly Did Not Fire the First Shot.

The resumption of the trial of Michael Donnelly for assault upon Patrick McArdle was delayed today, in Part I, of the Court of General Sessions, by the business of swearing the July Grand Jury, and several pleadings.

C. W. Brooks, counsel for Donnelly, said he had three or four witnesses besides Donnelly, himself, who was on the stand when an adjournment was taken Friday.

By these witnesses Mr. Brooks expected to prove the presence of another pistol in the hands of one of McArdle's friends, and to clinch the proof that the first shot was fired, not by Donnelly, but by one of the McArdle party.

Mr. Brooks withdrew Donnelly to call Richard T. Green to the witness stand.

Mr. Green is a lawyer. He entered the Common Pleas courtroom, where Judge Bischoff presided, a minute after the shooting. He picked up one bullet from the floor directly under a hole in the ceiling close to the chandelier, presumably a bullet hole. There was plaster on the bullet.

David W. Wilson, clerk of the Delevan House, Albany, came next to the stand. He found by the register that Donnelly was a guest at his hotel in September, 1902, and remembered that Donnelly asked for a room different from the one on the book, because he was in fear of men who were said to be lying in wait for him. He left instructions at the hotel that if any one called for him they were to be told that he had left town.

Mr. Green's next witness was the Rev. Assemblyman Meyer Stein, who was the witness with a sensation.

Mr. Stein is also a lawyer, at 25 Park Row. He came to court with a revolver in his hand, and he testified that he was in the Common Pleas courtroom during the shooting, and that he wrested the revolver from Donnelly's hand.

He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party.

"I was sitting on the south side of the long table facing Lawyer Severance at Michael Donnelly's room, and I saw Donnelly and the other men in the room, and facing towards the east," said Mr. Stein.

"I heard a shot. It came from behind Donnelly and Severance from the north or Chambers street side of the room."

"There were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"Donnelly and Mr. Severance jumped up and faced about towards Chambers street. Donnelly had a revolver in his hand, and Severance grabbed him. I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."

"Then there were two pistol shots, one from Donnelly's revolver and one from the room with a revolver in his hand. He was not certain whether it was one of the McArdles, father and son, or of the Freedman party."

"I saw Donnelly's revolver in his hand, and I saw it was a Smith & Wesson revolver."</